Rhodes State Faculty Recognized

Debora Geis, Associate Professor in the Division of Nursing at Rhodes State College was recognized as the Ohio Association of Two-Year Colleges (OATYC) full-time Outstanding Faculty of the Year. With 21 years of service at Rhodes State, Deb is the Course Coordinator, Medical Surgical Nursing and well known for her innovative use of technology in the classroom and for creating enhanced classroom learning experiences for her students. With her unique teaching perspective, she is a tremendous resource for her colleagues and the College.

Judy Giffin received the OATYC award as the Outstanding Adjunct Faculty of the Year. Judy has contributed an incredible 28 years of service to Rhodes State and has some "50" years of total teaching experience. Her level of teaching excellence is best described by her colleagues and by the rave reviews received from her students on whose lives she has left an indelible impression.

Rhodes State swept both categories with the recognition given to the two members of Rhode State's faculty; this is an unprecedented moment for one institution to receive both teaching awards.
